DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 17 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
3. In claims 17 and 19, the phrase "such as" renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether the limitations following the phrase are part of the claimed invention. See MPEP § 2173.05(d).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 12-16 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the JP'500 application (JP 6-319500) in view of the US'282 patent (US 7,094,282).
Claim 12: the JP'500 teaches a porous, spherical calcium phosphate (CaP) particle wherein the CaP is substituted with a metal ion in a range of up to 10 mol%. See JP'500, paragraphs [0016] and [0017] and [0019]. The US'282 teaches whiskers or crystals of inorganic material

(i.e. basic calcium phosphate) formed on the surface of CaP particles in order to improve CaP bioactivity. See US'282, col. 1, lines 37-39 and claim 1. It would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art to form a surface coating of inorganic material on the CaP particles of JP'500 in order to improve bioactivity of the particles as taught by US'282 (see US'282, col. 4, lines 1-11).

Claims 13-16: See JP'500, paragraphs [0012], 0016]. [0017], and Table 1.

Claim 18: the coating material taught in the US'282 is a basic calcium phosphate. See US'282, claim 1.

6. Claims 17, and 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of JP'500 and US'282 as applied to claims 12-16 and 18 above, and further in view of JP'956 (JP-3-141956).*

The claimed CaP particles can be arrived by the combined teachings of JP'500 and US'282 as stated above. Neither teaches a coating of biomaterial on the CaP particles. The JP'956 teaches coating biopolymer on CaP particles in order stabilize the shape of the particles when they are used as a filler and enhance the adhesion ability of the particles to bone and teeth. See JP'956, page 5, last paragraph. Therefore, one having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to modify the CaP particles by a coating of biopolymer as taught by JP'956. The biopolymer is chondroitin sulfate, which is a specific polymer of glycosaminoglycan.
